ABOUT THE ASSOCIATION

The Southern Historical Association (SHA) was organized on November 2, 1934 and charged with promoting an “investigative rather than a memorial approach” to southern history. The Association seeks to: 1) foster historically-based thinking in the American South; 2) foster the study and teaching of southern history at all educational levels; 3) encourage the collection and preservation of historical records within the American South; and 4) support and encourage state and local historical societies, museums, and educational organizations within the American South. The Association holds an annual meeting, usually in the first or second week of November, and publishes the quarterly Journal of Southern History.

The SHA aims to be an inclusive organization and strives to treat all members with dignity and respect and to provide a community that is free from discrimination, whether based on race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, pregnancy, marital status, or any other status or classification protected by federal, state, or local law.

The Southern Historical Association opposes sexual harassment in all aspects of academia and insists that all members adhere to our professional code of conduct. Please read our full policy at our website: thesha.org/about

The SHA maintains two permanent offices: the editorial office of the Journal of Southern History at Rice University since 1959, and the Secretary-Treasurer’s office at the University of Georgia since 1980.

Inquiries concerning articles, books, book reviews, advertising in the Journal of Southern History, departmental activities, and professional news and notices should be directed to:

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Joseph P. Reidy

Dear Conference Participants,

As this academic year comes to an end and we embark on what promises to be a productive, yet at the same time relaxing, summer, I invite you to begin looking forward to this year's annual meeting in Charlotte NC, November 9-12. The program committee, led by Nancy Bercaw and Betsy Herbin-Triant, has assembled a remarkable lineup of sessions addressing the influence of Southern conservatism across time. The focus on conservatism has proven to be more prescient now than last June when the committee issued the call for proposals. The extreme measures that have emerged in this year's state legislative sessions—particularly although not solely in the states of the former Confederacy—serve as a reminder of the persistent antidemocratic and intolerant strains of in our nation's history. The work of the session participants—a remarkably representative cross-section of the diverse elements that make up the SHA—models how evidence-based historical research and writing can illuminate the present as well as the past and how that knowledge can help to explode the fallacious claims upon which such measures rest.

Out of respect to Howard University, which was my academic home for thirty-seven years, and the more than 100 other Historically Black Colleges and Universities, the program also reflects the historic role of HBCUs in the South and the nation. Although at times cultivating conservative ideas and practices of their own, these colleges and universities and the people associated with them have served as the avant-garde in struggles against racially motivated political ideas and social policies. And they continue to do so. The opening plenary featuring HBCU presidents will pay tribute to that legacy.

In concluding, I encourage you to register for the meeting and plan to come to Charlotte November 9-12. I also ask, whether you are able to attend or not, that you consider donating to the SHA to help support the work of understanding the history of the South and the region's larger role in the history of the nation and the world. Remember that no amount is too small.

Please accept my profound thanks for your good work and my best wishes for a rejuvenating summer.

Sincerely,

Joseph P. Reidy, President
President, Southern Historical Association

ABOUT EHS

The European History Section was founded in 1955 to serve European historians, graduate students, and faculty in the South. Over the years, it has grown into a full-fledged associate of the Southern Historical Association, and it now attracts European historians, graduate students, faculty, independent researchers, and patrons of history in the entire United States and abroad. The European History Section is for everyone who is interested in the European past. The European History Section of the Southern Historical Association is the oldest European History Association in the United States. It encourages the study of the history of Europe, particularly by historians in the South. It is the only professional association of Europeanists with a comparative, multi-disciplinary approach. The European History Section is recognized as a non-profit organization under Section 501 (c) (3). All contributions are tax-deductible.

ABOUT SAWH

Founded in 1970, SAWH supports the study of women's and gender history of the American South. The organization welcomes as members all who are interested in these fields, and we value individuals and their differences including race, economic status, gender expression and identity, sex, sexual orientation, ethnicity, national origin, first language, religion, age, and ability status. The SAWH meets annually in conjunction with the Southern Historical Association (SHA), awards publication prizes, and sponsors the Southern Conference on Women's History every three years. SAWH members receive a thrice-yearly newsletter with conference announcements, calls for papers, and news about the organization and its members.

SHA AFFILIATES

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE ON BRITISH STUDIES

ABOUT SCBS

SCBS is a regional branch of the North American Conference on British Studies (NACBS). The Conference meets annually, customarily in the fall in conjunction with the Southern Historical Association. The meeting comprises two days of paper sessions with two or more panels running concurrently. The SCBS construes British Studies very broadly to include the history, literature, arts, and culture of the Home Islands and the Commonwealth. It welcomes into membership anyone interested in such subjects, whether or not pursued professionally.

SOUTHERN LABOR STUDIES ASSOCIATION

ABOUT SLSA

The SLSA promotes research and teaching in the field of southern labor and working-class studies, facilitates active programs of scholarly exchange among academics, teachers, archivists, and activists, and works to build and strengthen a sense of community among students and scholars of labor and the working class in the U.S. South.

STATEMENT ON INCLUSIVENESS

The Southern Historical Association (“SHA” or the “Association”) is committed to being an inclusive, diverse, and equitable organization. The SHA strives to treat all its members with dignity and respect and strives to provide a community that is free from discrimination and harassment in all respects, whether based on race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, pregnancy, marital status, or any other status or classification protected by federal, state, or local law.

CODE OF PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

The Southern Historical Association (“SHA” or the “Association”) strongly opposes discrimination and harassment in all aspects of academia. Further, the Association encourages informational activities designed to promote the education of its members and the public regarding discrimination and harassment and encourages historians to speak out against such incidents. Simultaneously, the Association opposes efforts to limit academic discourse and free speech on campuses, and it disapproves of the violation of academic freedom. Discrimination and harassment within academe are unethical, unprofessional, and constitute a threat to academic freedom.

Purpose

The purpose of this Code of Professional Conduct is to ensure a safe, welcoming, and inclusive environment, free of discrimination and harassment, for all members and participants during the SHA’s annual meeting (whether at an official or unofficial event or activity), in traveling to and from the annual meeting, during a SHA committee meeting, or in connection with performing committee or other official work for the SHA committee work (whether in-person, by telephone, or through electronic communication), all such events and activities referred to collectively herein as the “SHA Events and Activities”.

To that end, the SHA strictly prohibits discrimination and harassment against members and participants at all SHA Events and Activities, whether based on race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, pregnancy, marital status, or any other status or classification protected by federal, state, or local law.

Any form of discrimination or harassment based on any status or classification protected by federal, state, or local law at SHA Events and Activities is a serious violation of this Code of Professional Conduct and undermines the atmosphere of trust essential to the academic environment. It is unacceptable to condone discrimination or harassment or to disregard complaints of discrimination or harassment. Such actions or inactions may allow or promote a hostile environment and are inconsistent with the maintenance of academic freedom.

Simultaneously, the SHA recognizes that among historians and scholars who study and discuss difficult topics, there may be times when the display of offensive materials and the discussion of negative and even denigrating stereotypes and labels is reasonable for honest scholarly conversation.

Additionally, the SHA requires all members and participants, including attendees, staff, contractors, temporary staff, vendors, exhibitors, venue staff, employees, volunteers, and guests, to engage in respectful behavior and to preserve the Association’s standard of professionalism at all times at SHA Events and Activities.

Expected Behavior

- All participants are expected to comply with this Code of Professional Conduct at all SHA Events and Activities.
- All participants are expected to abide by the norms of professional respect that are necessary to promote the conditions for free academic interchange.
- If any participant witnesses or is subjected to a potential violation of this Code of Professional Conduct, the participant must immediately report the conduct as directed under this Code in the Complaint Process below.
- If any participant witnesses or is subjected to a situation in which someone may be in imminent physical danger, the participant must immediately alert staff, security personnel, or law enforcement, as appropriate.

Examples of Unacceptable Behavior

These examples are not intended to be exhaustive.

Sexual Harrassment

Unacceptable behavior includes any form of sexual harassment, and the SHA opposes sexual harassment in any setting. Sexual harassment of members or other participants at SHA Events and Activities is strictly prohibited under this Code of Professional Conduct. Sexual harassment includes behavior that demeans, humiliates, or threatens an individual on the basis of that individual’s sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, or sexual orientation. In the academic context, the term “sexual harassment” may be used to describe a wide range of behaviors.

Sexual harassment includes, but is not limited to, the following:

- Gender-based or sexist remarks or behavior
- Intentionally misgendering someone or refusing to use a person's preferred pronouns
- Sexual advances linked to reward or accompanied by threat of professional harm or other forms of retaliation
- Persistent and unwelcome solicitation of emotional or physical intimacy
- Sexual assault

Other Forms of Harassment and Discrimination

Harassment and discrimination on the basis of any protected characteristic are also strictly prohibited under this Code of Professional Conduct. Harassment includes inappropriate, discriminatory, or harassing comments or actions based on race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, pregnancy, marital status, and/or any other status or classification protected by federal, state or local law.

Examples may include, but are not limited to:

- Epithets, slurs, or negative stereotyping based on any protected status or classification
- Denigrating jokes and display or circulation of written or graphic material that denigrates or shows hostility or aversion toward an individual or group based on a protected status or classification
- Behavior that demeans, humiliates, or threatens an individual on the basis of any protected status or classification

Retaliation

Retaliation, retribution, or reprisal against any individual who in good faith reports any potential or actual violation of this Code of Professional Conduct or who assists or participates in any investigation under this Code of Professional Conduct is strictly prohibited. Any such retaliation constitutes a serious violation of this Code of Professional Conduct and will be subject to appropriate disciplinary action. Any person who witnesses or is subjected to retaliation must immediately report that conduct as directed under this Code of Professional Conduct.

COMPLAINT PROCESS

Any participant covered by this Code of Professional Conduct who believes he or she has witnessed or been subjected to any violation of this Code of Professional Conduct should immediately report the conduct:

- via the web intake portal (<http://thesha.ethicspoint.com>);
- via the mobile intake portal (<http://theshamobile.ethicspoint.com>);
- via phone at (833) 254-2098.

The complaint intake process is handled anonymously and independently via the incident management service NAVEX. All complaints will be taken seriously.

Upon receipt of a complaint under the Code of Professional Conduct, the SHA Professional Conduct Committee or the Committee's designee will conduct a prompt, thorough investigation of the complaint as appropriate. Any member of the Professional Conduct Committee who believes they have a conflict of interest will not participate in the investigation process. Depending on the circumstances, the Professional Conduct Committee may engage an outside investigator or counsel to conduct an investigation on its behalf as the Committee deems appropriate. Following investigation, the Professional Conduct Committee will refer its findings to the Executive Committee or the Executive Council.

Every reasonable effort will be made to keep all matters related to the complaint and the investigation confidential, and investigations will be designed to protect the privacy of the parties concerned to the extent reasonably possible.

Disciplinary Action

Individuals who violate this Code of Professional Conduct will be subject to appropriate disciplinary action by the Executive Committee or the Executive Council, as will individuals who make complaints under this Code in bad faith. Appropriate disciplinary action may include, but is not limited to, a verbal or written warning, censure, ejection from the annual meeting without refund of any applicable registration fees or costs, being banned from participating in future SHA Events and Activities, or expulsion from the membership in the Association.

Appeals

In the event that an individual is dissatisfied with any action taken as a result of the investigation, that individual may submit an appeal to the SHA's Executive Council within thirty (30) days following the action. An appeal may be granted in the discretion of the Executive Council.

Questions

Any questions regarding this Code of Professional Conduct should be directed to the President of the SHA.

CALL FOR PAPERS FOR KANSAS CITY

Angela Murphy

CROSSCURRENTS IN SOUTHERN AND WESTERN HISTORY

The SHA Program Committee invites proposals for the 90th Annual Meeting of the Southern Historical Association that will take place at the Westin Kansas City at Crown Center in Kansas City, Missouri, October 24-27, 2024.

This will be a special conference in that, although the SHA will maintain its own program, it will be held concurrently with the meeting of the Western Historical Association. The program committee therefore is especially interested in papers and panels that explore intersections between Southern and Western History as we meet alongside our Western History colleagues in Kansas City, a location where those two histories connect. Some general themes worth attention are: regional identity; race/racism/anti-racism; gender/women's history; LGBT histories; Indigenous/Native American history; labor activism/class consciousness; middle class formation/culture; scandals/crime/violence; policing/law enforcement/criminal justice; local histories of Kansas City and its environs; slavery expansion, especially in Missouri and Kansas; and environmental issues including natural disasters, drought, federal investment, national parks and land management, and climate change.

Some questions that may be considered include:

- How has regional identity developed in, and shaped, the South and/or the West?
- How have conceptions of the South/southerners and West/westerners connected with one another and how have those connections changed over time?
- How have the South and the West reckoned with their distinctive racial histories in recent years in academic historiography and/or public history?
- How important has the North/East been as foils of southern/western identity?
- How has migration, including Indigenous, Latino/a, Asian, European, and/or Black migrations at different phases of American history, shaped the South and the West?
- Both regions have been categorized as having distinctive cultures of violence. What might we learn from studying connections and comparisons of these cultures in the two regions?
- How have "southern" issues shaped the West and how have "western" issues shaped the South? For example: How has slavery shaped Western history? How have borderlands issues shaped the South?
- Where does the "South" end and the "West" begin in regions that are "both" Southern and Western (depending on the moment) such as Appalachia, Texas, Missouri, Southern-expats in California, etc.?
- How does the idea of the Sunbelt challenge typical regionalization in U.S. history?
- What carceral histories do the South and West share and how have criminal justice issues shaped the regions?
- Both Southern and Western History have provided very rewarding forums and disciplines for scholars examining the multi-layered impact of race and ethnicity on regional identity. In what ways have these regional forums helped accelerate scholarship on matters of race and ethnicity?
- Scholars in both regions have sought to escape earlier generations' environmental determinism, from aridity to cotton culture. In what ways does our current climate urgency help us reconsider the role of various environments in shaping conditions and identities across both regions?
- What are some pedagogical strategies for incorporating Southern and Western history into our classrooms, especially in American History surveys that tend to proceed from New England/Virginia westward via expansion in their traditional chronologies?

2023 SHA TEACHING TRACK

Note from the WHA and SHA Executive Offices:

We enthusiastically celebrate the propitious timing for western and southern historians to cross paths and exchange their work and ideas.

Please note: the 2024 WHA and SHA conferences are concurrent events, not one joint event. The associations will share exhibit space and joining events, but each will maintain their typical programs to ensure that the gatherings are familiar and enjoyable for all attendees.

All proposals for the 2024 program must be submitted online before September 15, 2023. See thesha.org/submit-a-proposal.

Formats

Traditional panels are composed of three 15-minute papers, a chair, and two commentators, one of whom may be the chair. (One panel member, designated the organizer, will submit a 250-word panel overview, abstracts for each paper, and the participants' vitas.) Single paper submissions are accepted and, where possible, will be matched into panels by the Program Committee. However, complete panels have priority. (You may find H-South helpful in connecting with scholars to build panels.) Roundtables are organized discussions including three to four discussants and a moderator, who responds and asks questions of the participants, one of whom is designated the organizer. Discussants focus on a specific field or topic in informal 8-minute remarks, but do not read a formal paper. The moderator asks questions to which they respond, leaving ample time for questions from the audience. (The organizer submits a 250-word statement on the main question under discussion and each participant's vita.) The SHA is also open to Alternative Session Proposals.

MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE MESSAGE

Whitney Nell Stewart

Welcome to Charlotte

On behalf of the Membership Committee, welcome to Charlotte! We are thrilled to once again gather in-person for a weekend of Southern history. Though we spend much of the year planning and awaiting the annual meeting, the SHA is also busy with publishing the best in Southern history, advocating for history workers across the nation, and bringing all of us together through innovative programming. Building on the transformative work of prior Chair Kelly Kennington, this year's Committee has been busy maintaining and growing our membership, developing new virtual year-round programs, and building on beloved conference events. These include the second annual July Membership Drive, new Virtual Graduate Students Workshops in coordination with the SHA Grad Council, and new Coffee, Tea, & Confab virtual hangouts meant to facilitate conversation with those working on similar topics and in similar fields. Two other highlights include:

Classic Texts in Southern History

In this new SHA virtual program, we bring members together to talk about classic texts in Southern history. We ask SHA members to choose their top classic texts through a virtual poll, leaving the real hard decisions to the people. Then, a panel of experts discuss the content, context, and meaning of the book, both in the time of its publication and in our own time, and then open to the audience to further explore this canonical work together. This program brings together historians across generations, fields, and occupations to engage in intriguing conversations about where we've been, where we are, and where we (could or should) be headed.

Public Square

The Public Square is back at the SHA Meeting! In its second year, the Square will continue highlighting the important work of public historians while also functioning as the central meeting place for all conference goers. Centrally located in the exhibit hall, come to meet, mingle, and chat about the work we do in and with the public. Stop by at any time to talk with folks from local museums, historic sites, archives, and university Public History programs, who will "take-over" the Square for an hour or two during the conference (make sure to check out the schedule in the conference program). The Square will also be a great place to toast friends new and old during its three receptions—the second annual First Time Attendees Reception (Thursday), the first-ever New Books Reception (Friday), and the second annual Public History Happy Hour (Saturday).

We'd love to see more of our wonderful SHA members at these events and programs, so please join in! Keep an eye on the SHA Newsletter and Social Media for more info.

Have a great idea for the next classic text? Really want to see a particular topic covered in a grad student workshop? Have other thoughts on how to improve membership? Feel free to reach out anytime. And when you see me around the conference, make sure to say hi.

Cheers!

See Blowing Rock's Heritage

The Blowing Rock Historical Society brings our rich and colorful heritage to life for our beautiful village. Visit our community and engage with our fun history and the many cultural things to do.

The Blowing Rock History Walk is a new ¼ mile round trip from the center of Main Street through beautiful Broyhill Park and back. With 21 history stations (and seating around Broyhill Lake), you can learn about people, places and events that made us what we are today. And each history narrative has a detailed back story with photos on our web site.

Three Downtown Museums

Edgewood Cottage: first home of renowned artist Elliott Daingerfield, it serves as a museum when not used for Artists in Residence.

Blowing Rock Art & History Museum has wonderful art exhibitions and a local history gallery.

1888 Museum was part of our first hotel and located in Memorial Park. It describes our history of tourism.

History Books, Videos, and History on Our Web Site

www.blowingrockhistoricalsociety.com

An award-winning history of Blowing Rock (available on Amazon) and new history videos by Dr. Barry Buxton.

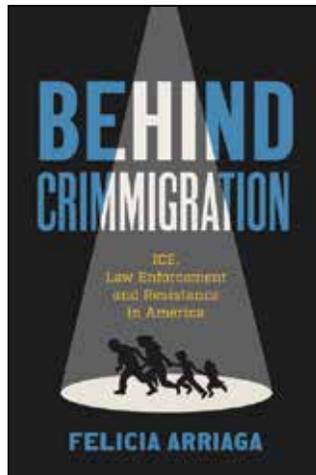

Visit our web site to learn about our rich and colorful history and about our organization, our books, videos, and what you can see and do in our community.
